WHITE HART â Sarah Dalton: Well written romp through a fantasy world that was worth exploring. DESTINY'S WINGS â D.S. Schmeckpeper: Fantastic story, Great characters that draw you in. Some classical fantasy mixed with a new pantheon. Had to buy the rest of the books. WELL worth the read. WANDERING TO BELONG â Jess Mountifield: Not a long story, A little rough i think and doesn't flow very well. You don't see the ending coming though. WHEN SHADOWS FALL â Bruce Blake: Actually didn't complete this story. Just didn't draw me in. PARADOX: THE ANGELS ARE HERE â Patti Roberts: Some seriously messed up charaters in this one. They sure seemed to be set up for you to be repulsed by them. This was just long enough to set a foundation for more story but it wasn't enough for me to be interested in following up. WERELORD THAL: A RENAISSANCE WEREWOLF TALE â Tracy Falbe: Interesting take on the werewolf story. THE DRAGIL: BROKEN MAGIC â Holly Barbo: Short story with a fast pace. Just a little to predictable. THE AVALON TRILOGY I: THE STAR REALM â Julie Elizabeth Powell THE AVALON TRILOGY II: INVASION â Julie Elizabeth Powell THE AVALON TRILOGY III: SECRETS OF THE ICE â Julie Elizabeth Powell: These three stories do a great job of turning what you think a fantasy story should be on its head. The characters are consistent and relateable. The plot twists are humorous and well thought out. Very well done works.

So far so good! The first story is excellent. I love unconventional heroines. Girls with grit under their fingernails and a brain. I loved this one enough to stay up way too late last night reading. I picked up this book as a part of an anthology. Can't wait to read the rest of what's in the set. The first one was great. Will update as I read. Oh My! The second story was great. Called out of hiding, Celeste is given a task by one of the remaining dragons. But to do it she has to come out of seclusion. For the half elf half herald woman giving up her forest life is a trial. Then there is the reason she went into hiding in the first place. This hard to put down tale will keep you reading.

I found that I liked the mix of stories, and the ability to read a story and then change gears. Then when I found one I really liked I could go looking for something else along the same story-line. I have to admit to being a very Bad reviewer this year, dealing with Cancer surgery and elderly parents I have been reading as an escape since TV is often out and I keep reading, not stopping to say I liked am trying to do better, and hope to get more caught up on I liked Thanks..

Not great so far. I am not a fan of urban Sci-Fi or fantasy, and so far that seems to be the main thrust of this collection. One thing that drives me bonkers is the inability in many of these sets to skip to the next story, if one story does not seem to be entertaining. There is no Table of Contents so you cannot just go there and select the next "short" story (many of these are hundreds of tablet pages long!). You actually need to manually flip pages until you are to the next one, which is hopefully better. Not a good system and almost enough to make me call it a day! I applaud anyone who can put a story together and get it out there. Just don't force me to read it if it is not my cup of tea!

My little brother who is always playing 'Magic: The Gathering' love these books! He even added that this would go to his collector's item.

Lots of different titles, that bring new authors to you. hey all, I think so far lead to other books, meaning the beginning of lots of series. None of them are really stand alone books, but still very enjoyable and a way to become familiar with authors you would not otherwise read. I think it is an exceptional value, especially if you read for enjoyment.

Enjoyed 3 of the 10 books. The authors that I would recommend are Sarah Dalton, Bruce Blake, and Holly Barbo.

Book 10 changed the way I view dragons.. I used to love the celestial animal but man, they're too destructive to be a part of the civil society. Great series!
