Being Human: An Entheological Guide To God, Evolution, And The Fractal, Energetic Nature Of Reality

Synopsis

Simple, concise, and radical, Being Human outlines the Entheological Paradigm, a Grand Unified Theory of reality that accounts for not only all of the physical world, but personal consciousness, life, and God as well. This guide explains the nature of God as a Fractal Energy Being and how this One Being works to create all of physical reality and is also embodied in all living beings through the process of evolution. To be Human is to be God in a body. This guide not only explains how this is accomplished through energetic evolution, but also explains how individuals can use entheogenic medicines to learn how to own their personal energy and take responsibility for themselves as unique manifestations and embodiments of God. Free of fluff, mystification, metaphysics, and all religious dogma and illusion, Being Human is the simple, easy-to-follow guide to a fulfilling life in reality that humanity has been waiting for. This is the book that can change the world, and it all begins with YOU! Welcome, at long last, to Reality!

Since undergoing my own spiritual emergency after a bout with breast cancer in 2007, the seeker in me has been on hyper-drive. While I have spent a great deal of my life reading philosophy and psychology books, my recent love affair with authors and books that bridge the worlds of spirituality and science has been insatiable to say the least. Of all the books I have read to date, however, Martin Ball's book, Being Human, offers a completely original and I would venture to say holistic and practical guide to understanding our relationship to what many refer to as God, but what Martin so succinctly refers to as the divine imagination - an energy that is in all beings but that has manifested in human beings in a particularly unique and sophisticated way. Originally recommended to me by another favorite author of mine, John Jay Harper (author of Tranceformers: Shamans of the 21st Century), it took me almost a year to pick up Martin's book. Once I began reading it and understanding his message, however, many of my old beliefs around spirituality, parapsychology, metaphysics and religion began to fall away. His simple yet profoundly encompassing view of what it means to be human and simultaneously embody the divine provides great comfort and reminds us that although we are a fractal representation of the divine, as human beings we are always subject to the laws of the physical world and must maintain patience as we embrace slow and incremental change in the future of our race through the process of evolution. Martin's main message in Being Human is to remind each of us to stay grounded in 'reality' as much as possible and he recommends some interesting and less than traditional tools to achieve this (at least not traditional to those of us who subscribe to western medicine and psychology).

BEING HUMAN This review is from Paul Chek's blog: [...]. Being Human, by Martin W. Ball, PH.D is an excellent little book that explores the use of ethnogens and God-states. As a licensed Medicine Man - Spirit Guide practicing Native healing, I've spent a significant amount of time and energy investigating the use of ethnogens as a means of psycho-physical healing. History is rife with explanations and experiences of their effective use, yet the drug companies have essentially stolen the healing powers of plants and programmed people to believe that drugs given by doctors are safe and effective, and that you are putting yourself in grave danger if you use any drug that isn't considered "legal" or isn't physician prescribed. Look at the news tonight to see if that idea is working...look all around you! While I recommend this book by Martin Ball, there are some points of contention I'll share briefly here: 1. On p.13, Ball states:... "Religions teach us that we have souls or spirits that give us life. This is fundamentally incorrect. Your life is God. You do not have a spirit or a soul in any way whatsoever. You are God in a body. Any idea of a soul or spirit is superfluous, unnecessary and ultimately incorrect. Each living being is God embodied directly from source. This statement is self-contradictory. The last sentence here, ". Each living being is God embodied directly from source." Suggests that each living being is embodied directly from source. The key word here is "source". Used correctly, "GOD" means "ALL". The truth, as I experience it, is that God is Sum and Source. If God is God, there can be none other, for God is the source of substance; substance being that which exists as measurable or "knowable AS something".

As is said, "nothing new under the sun" I found Dr. Ball's view of reality to be far reaching based on his interpretation as he so forcibly dismisses the view of subtle reality, as being void of a spirit realm or soul plane in created existence. For one, spirit is synonymous to conscious energy, how that could be missed by Dr. Ball is laughable. I also had a problem with his assumption towards other ppl's experiences of ufo and alien phenomena, in most recorded cases of either, no ppl ever mention tripping on DMT or any other mind altering drug for their experiences even when they passed a polygraph test. Dr. Ball would have one to believe or at least accept his arrogant view that humans are the highest degree of God intelligence in the universe because of his experience with DMT tripping. Sure, ppl can lie about their experiences but then again Dr. Ball cannot verify who's lying or speaking the truth as he wouldn't know most of the ppl personally that he may feel is just caught up in delusional fantasy. But, the same can be said about his interpretation of absolute reality as he admits to using DMT to induce his aha moment. So what!, if DMT is produced by the body, so is serotonin, but receiving injections of it doesn't make anyone a messiah in the real world. It's not late breaking news that all things are related to what is called God, this particular view has always been expressed by ancient spiritualist as well as those of today. I actually liked the beginning part of Dr. Ball's book about showing the connection between Creator and creation, but he dropped the ball (p. i.) when he gave the weak claim of physical reality as we know it as being the only individuated reality with no subtler hierarchy. Physicist now know that this is not so, why Dr.
