Customer Reviews

"..half of the human brain is devoted directly or indirectly to vision.." said Professor Mriganka Sur of MIT's Department of Brain and Cognitive Sciences -----In this book, Tony Buzan convincingly argues for the importance of Mind Mapping--a method of recording and organizaing

information based on the nature of human brains. After reading this book and experimenting with Mind Mapping myself, I do believe that our usual writing system does not enable our brains to function effectively and Mind Mapping is a major improvement over it. Mind Mapping is based on a few basic principles summarized as follows: * Represent concepts with keywords * Make associations * Organize into hierarchy * Visualize concepts using images * Stimulate your brain with colors and symbols * Order and emphasize according to importance

The major benefits from the use of Mind Maps are: * Images, colors, and associations stimulates creative thinking. * Mind Mapping forces you to think actively about the things you learn. * Efficiency in making/taking notes. * Learning is simply more fun!

The latter part of the book suggests many uses of Mind Maps: writing a personal diary, sharing stories within a family, thinking, teaching, making notes, presenting a lecture, and collaborating in a professional environment. For example, Boeing created a 25-foot long Mind Map summarizing an aircraft engineering manual, which helped save millions of dollars worth of staff time. Tony's writing is lucid and the presentation of the book is excellent. I found the colorful examples given throughout the book especially inspiring and useful.
