Customer Reviews

Sanctuary of Roses by C. Gleason was a very enjoyable book. The plot was interesting and well paced. The use of language made the story and characters come to life. Typos etc. are minimal. The story is fairly clean, except for the wedding night bedding scene which is not overly descriptive and fairly brief. I did feel that the hero, lord Gavin Mal Verne, could have been fleshed out a bit more. I liked the heroine, Madelyne de Belgrume, a lot. And, I despised the mad alchemist and unholy "chosen one" and his twisted mind. I can recommend this book, and rate it 4 stars. I'll add more as I finish the others in the set. My Noble Knight by L. O'Donnell is a romance with kisses only. I know that some readers prefer their love stories without love making scenes. So, this one might be just what you're looking for. However, while the storyline is kind of unique, it failed to hold my undivided attention. I also was disappointed by way the final joust situation went down. There were some annoying incorrect words from time to time. I would only rate this book 3 stars. Rowan's Lady by S. Tisdale has one big glaring problem for me as a realistic woman. That is the author's choice to have the heroine, Arline, be lusting after the hero, Rowan, when she has just escaped from her husband who has beaten and kicked her extensively. I quote from the book; "Odd. The further away he was from her the easier it was to speak. But let him get close enough to touch and she turned into a mindless puddle of goo." And, "Ye kent I was injured," she said, attempting to sound as nonchalant as possible. Her stomach was still all aflutter and she had to focus on speaking coherently.
